

Employment Opportunity for Kinesiologist Lydian Center for Innovative Medicine

The Lydian Center for Innovative Medicine in Cambridge, Massachusetts, is seeking a full-time Kinesiology practitioner with a focus on brain integration and learning disabilities.

About The Lydian Center:

The Lydian Center for Innovative Medicine is a group of seasoned practitioners pursuing new treatment techniques at the cutting edge of health care, education and human development. We treat a broad range of conditions including: chronic pain and illness, structural instability (poor coordination, gross and fine motor skills), nutritional deficiencies, psycho-emotional trauma, developmental delays, sensory integration and learning problems. Our team is comprised of Chiropractors, Homeopaths, Energy Kinesiologists, Psychotherapists, a Craniosacral Therapist, and a Naturopath.

Position Summary:

The successful candidate will work closely with Charles T. Krebs, PhD, a pioneer in the field of kinesiology and functional neurology. In a collegial setting, Dr Krebs will provide extensive training in the application of acupressure techniques for brain and body integration. This will include the advanced application of his Learning Enhancement Acupressure Program (LEAP), and other brain Integration techniques. Future projects include documenting these cutting edge techniques, designing training programs, and engaging in research studies.

Once trained, the successful candidate will work independently with clients in the context of our integrated team of practitioners at the Lydian Center. This collaboration among practitioners supports our on-going work of neuro-integration and overall wellness in clients. Clients will consist of children and adults with learning difficulties (ADD, ADHD, NVLD, and difficulty with reading, spelling and math), as well as a variety of other neurological disorders (e.g. brain trauma).

Skills and Qualifications:

The Lydian Center acknowledges that candidates may come from a variety of academic and experiential backgrounds. Although the following list of qualifications are necessary to perform the work that the position requires, it is not expected that candidates will possess all of the knowledge / experience listed below. The ideal candidate would be prepared to undertake prerequisite training(s) as needed to fill any gaps in their current knowledge base.

Recommended Experience / Knowledge:

- Strong understanding of Kinesiology principles (accurate muscle monitoring, pause lock, use of hand modes)
- Strong history of patient management in clinical practice
- Basic knowledge of anatomy and physiology
- Basic knowledge of Energetic Sciences i.e. Acupuncture Meridian and Chakra systems
- Experience working with special needs children
- Background in education a plus (Ed.M, SPED teacher, early childhood development, teaching experience)
- Licensure a plus (OT, PT, LMT, etc.)

Compensation:

This is a full time job with health benefits. Salary commensurate with experience.
